The current BETTER OF ranking system and rules will remain in place through the Tournament week of March 15, 2021 (i.e., the week prior to Miami), which results in a better of ranking system for March 4, 2019 – March 21, 2021.

At the conclusion of the 2021 Miami Tournament, points will begin to drop and the traditional ranking system will transition into place. This will provide for the normal drop of points with the April 5, 2021 ranking.

Players will be required to count all WTA 1000 Mandatory and their best two (2) WTA 1000 Non-Mandatory Tournament singles main draw results on their Best 16 ranking beginning with the April 5, 2021 rankings if they can gain main draw entry.

SPECIAL RANKINGS

For new Special Ranking applications, the five (5) months the Tour was suspended will be excluded when calculating the minimum six (6)-month timeframe a player must be out of competition to be eligible for a Special Ranking.

Players who have not played since the Tour resumed play in August and are now ready to return to play in January 2021 will be given the following options:

- Option 1: Medical Special Ranking with eight (8) tournaments in both singles and doubles
 - Player must be out of competition for six (6) months from when the Tour resumed play (until at least February 1, 2021).
- Option 2: Medical Special Ranking with six (6) tournaments in both singles and doubles
 - Player must be out of competition for five (5) months from when the Tour resumed play (until at least January 1, 2021).

Special Ranking Entry (SRE) Rule Adjustment

Eligible players who have not played since the Tour resumed play can use their March 16th frozen ranking for four (4) Tournament entries up to the week of March 15, 2021.

If a player enters using her SRE, once the entry deadline has passed, it will count as an SRE Tournament used.
